Theme of 2026 festival is Courage, centered around three concert performances of Beethoven's opera Fidelio, conducted by Music Director Franz Welser-Möst

Genre-bending opening night features opera, jazz, and film music, led by Terence Blanchard with Will Liverman, the E-Collective, Turtle Island Quartet, and projections by Andrew F. Scott

Festival events include spoken word with Tarriona "Tank" Ball, a keynote by Bryan Stevenson, the return of The Moth Mainstage: Live from Severance, and a program with works by Adolphus Hailstork, Bacewicz, Jüri Reinvere, and Dvořák

A new Halim Flowers exhibition, created in Cleveland especially for the festival, explores courage as a visual language for unconditional love

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Orchestra has announced the fourth edition of its annual Jack, Joseph, and Morton Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival, running May 15–24 at Severance Music Center and partner locations throughout Cleveland.

The 2026 festival explores the theme of *Courage through a variety of musical and cultural programming centered on three concert performances of Beethoven’s only opera, Fidelio, conducted by Music Director Franz Welser-Möst.

At the heart of the festival is a new creative partnership with Terence Blanchard, a celebrated artist whose extraordinary contributions to jazz, groundbreaking work as an opera composer, and deep commitment to using music as a bridge beyond language all embody the festival’s theme of Courage. In this capacity, Blanchard has curated a variety of programs and conversations—including an opening-night experience featuring opera, jazz, and film music—that explore Courage through the breadth and boldness of his eclectic and genre-spanning musical scope.

“The 2026 Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival is about courage,” said Terence Blanchard. “The courage to speak your mind, to listen and truly hear, and to make space for every voice as we come together as a community. I’m excited to serve as this year’s Festival Curator because it gives us the opportunity to use a range of musical and artistic experiences to explore who we are as human beings, who we need to be moving forward, and how we can reconnect with our shared humanity.”

Blanchard’s breadth of experience transcends the limitations of any one label. For more than 40 years, he has made a name for himself as a sought-after jazz musician. As both a sideman and bandleader, his talents and collaborations with artists such as Wynton and Branford Marsalis and Herbie Hancock have taken him around the world and earned numerous awards, including eight GRAMMYS®. His devotion to jazz, and music more broadly, has led to administrative and educational positions at institutions including the Herbie Hancock Institute of Jazz—which he personally lobbied to have moved from Los Angeles to New Orleans in the wake of Hurricane Katrina—UCLA, and the Berklee College of Music.

“Over his legendary career, Terence Blanchard has shown a constant commitment to artistic excellence, creative risk-taking, and using his work and network to expand who is seen and heard on our stages,” said Cleveland Orchestra President & CEO André Gremillet. “He has long reminded us that, even in our greatest institutions, there is always more work to be done. I can’t think of a better curator for this year’s festival theme, Courage, and I’m excited to share his visionary artistry with Cleveland.”

As a composer, Blanchard is especially well known for his film scores—notably, his 18 collaborations with Spike Lee including Malcom X and BlackKkKlansman, the latter of which earned Blanchard his fifth GRAMMY® for Best Instrumental Composition (“Blut und Boden [Blood and Soil]”). Blanchard made history in the 2021–22 season, when his already-successful opera Fire Shut Up in My Bones was staged by The Metropolitan Opera; the Met had never before staged a work by a Black composer. His 2013 opera, Champion, was staged by the Met in the following season; both operas have earned GRAMMY® Awards for Best Opera Recording.

“The Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival was created to explore questions that shape our civic and cultural life,” said Jehuda Reinharz, President & CEO of the Jack, Joseph, and Morton Mandel Foundation. “This year’s festival invites community members to engage with the concept of Courage not just as an artistic theme, but as a human and civic practice. We are proud to support a festival that continues to deepen dialogue, expand perspective, and reflect the complexity of the world we live in, and we look forward to the new ideas and artistic vision that Terence Blanchard will bring as Festival Curator.”

The detailed program listing of Cleveland Orchestra events as of January 2026 can be found below. The full festival lineup, including additional Cleveland Orchestra and partner events, will be announced in March 2026.

About the Jack, Joseph, and Morton Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival

Expanding on The Cleveland Orchestra and Music Director Franz Welser-Möst’s tradition of innovative opera presentations, the Orchestra launched the Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival in May 2023. The festival’s inaugural edition was praised by The New York Times as a “compelling proof of concept” and “an ambitious achievement.”

The 2026 installment, curated by Terence Blanchard and centered around the theme of “Courage,” marks the festival’s fourth edition, following “The American Dream” in 2023 (Puccini’s The Girl of the Golden West), “Power” in 2024 (Mozart’s The Magic Flute), and “Reconciliation” in 2025 (Janáček’s Jenůfa).

Halim Flowers: “It Takes Courage to Love All Unconditionally”

Thursday, April 9, 2026, through Sunday, May 24, 2026

Severance Music Center

Free Festival Exhibition

In “It Takes Courage to Love All Unconditionally,” celebrated artist Halim Flowers unveils a new body of work created in Cleveland expressly for the Mandel Opera & Humanities Festival and drawing its energy and vision from the festival’s central theme of Courage.

“The works in this special exhibition explore courage as a visual language for unconditional love. When courage leads, empathy deepens, giving rise to a sense of closeness that invites viewers to move beyond fear and toward a more generous, compassionate way of being.” — Halim Flowers

Presented in partnership with District Gallery, the exhibition channels Flowers’s signature blend of vivid color, vulnerability, and radical hope. Extending his vision beyond the exhibition walls, Flowers is also collaborating with youth culture brand Xhibition to craft exclusive festival apparel inspired by the theme of Courage.

About Halim Flowers

Halim Flowers was born in Washington, DC, and at age 16 was sentenced to two life terms for a crime he did not commit. His story—later featured in Kim Kardashian-West: The Justice Project and the Emmy Award–winning Thug Life in D.C.—traces his transformation from incarcerated youth to celebrated artist, writer, and advocate.

While in prison, Flowers discovered poetry as a means of survival and expression; after his release in 2019 under the Incarceration Reduction Amendment Act, he quickly emerged as a powerful voice for justice, sharing his work publicly within days. His artistic practice has since expanded into vibrant, Basquiat-inspired visual art now exhibited internationally.

A Halcyon Arts Lab Fellow, Echoing Green Fellow, and 2025–26 Obama Foundation Leader, Flowers has delivered a TEDx Talk, studied through Georgetown University’s Prison and Justice Initiative, and contributed to MoMA’s landmark Marking Time exhibition. His work continues to champion human rights and illuminate the transformative power of art.

Courage and Poetry: An Evening with Tank Ball

Sunday, May 17, 2026, at 4 p.m.

Severance Music Center, Reinberger Chamber Hall

Ticketed Event

Tarriona "Tank" Ball brings her spellbinding blend of spoken word and poetry to the festival with a performance that digs deep into the meaning of courage: how we claim it, carry it, and reshape the world with it. Known for her fierce lyricism and emotional clarity, Tank won her first GRAMMY® in 2025 for Best Spoken Word Poetry Album with her band, Tank and the Bangas. For this special event, she is joined by fellow Grammy-winning composer, trumpeter, and this year's Festival Curator Terence

Blanchard, whose music adds depth and dimension to her storytelling. Together, they create an unforgettable evening where courage becomes a shared, intimate experience of voice, rhythm, and imagination.
